

Winter

I like the bareness of winter

It lets me see things I don't otherwise see

Through the branches

Emptied of their leaves

I see

Nests

And mountain views

And houses

That are hidden during

The fuller, greener, warmer months

Winter has its own fullness

Full of Silence

And stillness

Reminding me of my own inner longing

To slow down

And draw in